OPERA (birds)

7/5-22/5 -2005, Vasagatan, Gothenburg.

A rare bird might sing every day for a long period of time but it is not likely. The probability that a blackbird or a chaffinch will sing during night time is small but it might happen. Some days the jackdaw will sing together with the nightingale other days with the magpie or on its own in solitude. Some birds sing during night others are more likely to be heard in daytime, and so on. Within the computer program there are also some birds of prey that can take over and make all the other birds quiet for hours, days or weeks. Thus the opera can take many forms and becomes impossible to predict. The singing of the birds is also affected by the position of the sun. The singing is most intensive at sunrise and sunset. The birds that normally reside around Vasagatan); Seagulls, crows, magpies, pigeons, finches, blackbirds will probably be the most frequent singers, while the sparrow hawk and other rare birds will be heard more rarely or even not at all.
